iRobot Comments on ISS Recommendation

Recommends Shareholders Vote FOR ALL iRobot Nominees on the WHITE Proxy Card

BEDFORD, Mass., May 10, 2016 — iRobot Corporation (NASDAQ: IRBT) (“iRobot” and the “Company”), a leader in delivering robotic technology-based solutions, today issued the following statement in response to a report by Institutional Shareholder Services (“ISS”) regarding the election of directors to iRobot’s Board of Directors at iRobot’s 2016 Annual Meeting of Stockholders to be held on May 25, 2016:

We strongly believe that ISS reached the wrong conclusion.

iRobot is an innovative consumer technology company that commands 62% market share in the highly competitive robotic vacuuming segment. Maintaining this market share requires vision, technological prowess and significant investment. We spend 12% of our revenue on R&D, similar to other technology-enabled consumer products companies. The rewards for our shareholders are tangible and attractive: 47% gross margins and strong revenue growth, driven by our proven ability to create and enter new market segments.

ISS’ report starts from the mistaken premise that technology and innovation are not core to iRobot’s success or future. We flatly disagree. We do not believe iRobot would be well-served by operating like traditional, low-tech consumer products companies that regularly change packaging, colors and flavors, but offer limited technological innovation. ISS does not recognize that 62% market share, and the profits and cash flow that come with it, are not a given. We earn it through our R&D and technology leadership every quarter and every year. We believe long-term shareholder value would be put at risk if iRobot were to substantially cut R&D spending, as suggested by ISS and Red Mountain. The iRobot Board must continue to act as a responsible steward of the Company’s future. We urge you to support our nominees and business plan.

Our nominees – Mohamad Ali and Michael Bell — bring deep technology experience in software development, cloud computing and SaaS, and the Internet of Things, which will be instrumental to iRobot’s next chapter of growth. We are confident that Messrs. Ali and Bell bring the experience necessary to continue driving innovation and profit for years to come.

iRobot shareholders are reminded that their vote is extremely important, no matter how many or how few shares they own. iRobot strongly recommends that shareholders elect the Company’s world-class leaders by voting the WHITE proxy card today “FOR” ALL of iRobot’s highly-qualified and experienced director nominees: Michael Bell and Mohamad Ali.
