iRobot Division President to Retire

BURLINGTON, Mass., Sept. 28, 2006 — iRobot Corp. (NASDAQ: IRBT) today announced Gregory White, president of iRobot Home Robots, will retire in 2007 to explore a career in education. White will continue in his role as division president until his successor is named.

“Greg has done an outstanding job of running the business and establishing iRobot as a leader in the home robots category,” said Colin Angle, co-founder and chief executive officer of iRobot. “This move is also an opportunity to hire an executive who can build on Greg’s legacy and lead iRobot into new global markets.”

“This was a tough decision for me, but I am confident in the future of the company and the strength of the management team,” said White, president of iRobot Home Robots. “Personally, I am privileged to have the option to spend more time with my family and explore academic opportunities.”

White joined iRobot in 2003. Under his leadership, the home robots business reported $94 million in revenues in 2005, a 100 percent increase since 2003. The company has sold more than 2 million iRobot Roomba® Vacuuming Robots worldwide and introduced iRobot Scooba®, the first floor-washing robot for home use.
